118. History</h2>↵
119.             Born in Lister Hospital in Stevenage, 120. Hertfordshire (the same as Lewis Hamilton)↵
                I grew up in the garden-city called Letchworth in North Hertfordshire, England. I can↵ recall spending time↵ with my family and friends, sometimes playing my older brother's acoustic guitar when I↵ was allowed, well,↵ more like playing a toy than actually playing an instrument. However, by the age of 10 I↵ was getting into↵ quite a lot of trouble at school which was causing me problems at home as I would tend↵ to have a lot of↵ meltdowns. I wasn't a bad child according to my mum and dad, but I was having a lot of↵ problems expressing↵ my emotions in a constructive way. I was more DESTRUCTIVE, if you know what I mean.↵

121.      Just before I started secondary school I was diagnosed with<
122.      Attention Deficit<
123.      Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and<
124.      High-Function Autism. To help cope with these,
I started drum lessons at the<
125.      Letchworth<
126.      Drum Studio around the<
127.      corner from my house. My mum and dad thought that 'drumming-out' my frustrations<
128.      might<
129.      be a good way<
130.      to relieve some anger and stress. This worked for about a year until I got to the<
131.      point<
132.      of not enjoying it<
133.      as much as when I first started so I gave it up for a while and that's when I fell<
134.      back<
135.      into trouble. As it<
136.      helped me out the first-time, I went back to drumming. It was like riding a bike.<
137.      <
138.      Another year went past and I didn't feel the need to play drums<
139.      anymore so instead I<
140.      started to learn guitar<
141.      (properly this time). I enjoyed the occasional jamming sessions with my Dad and<
142.      Grandad<
143.      Peter or my Uncle Ron who<
144.      all play guitar.<
145.      When I first started playing guitar I was 13 and I would<
146.      practice every day by<
147.      watching<
148.      either youtube videos or<
149.      playing along with my favourite guitarist, Ed
Sheeran. I even had my own youtube<
150.      channel<
151.      and was in a band at<
152.      school. Unfortunately, I could only play four chords at the time and the other band<
153.      members wanted me to play<
154.      songs I didn't know the chords for which caused arguments. Eventually I left the<
155.      band<
156.      and carried on my practice<
157.      at home.<

My Guitars</h2><
164.      As a present for my hard work, my Grandad Peter bought me my<
165.      first electric guitar<
166.      along<
167.      with a strap, tuner and<
168.      little practice 'Chord' brand amplifier<
169.      (which I still use today).<
170.      I had seen in a local music shop window the exact guitar<
171.      that I wanted in a light<
172.      blue<

```

173. (as blue is my favourite color)↵
174. and this guitar looked like a Fender Stratocaster which is the guitar shape my↵
175. Grandad↵
176. Peter plays. However, when I↵
177. looked closer it was actually a 'Chord'↵
178. brand guitar in the shape↵
179. of a Stratocaster. Even better really because the price in the window was fairly↵
180. cheap.↵
181. ↵
182. When my Grandad said he would buy it for me I was really↵
183. excited. MY FIRST GUITAR!↵
184. One↵
185. that was mine, not borrowed↵ 186. from my brother or the school! So, on the first Saturday we were all able to get↵
187. together, myself, Dad and Grandad↵
188. Peter went into the shop and bought the guitar combo deal. I've played that guitar↵
189. for↵
190. hours-upon-hours since then.↵
191. About 2 years after, my sister-in-law had found both her↵
192. Casio keyboard (with stand)↵
193. and↵
194. half-size acoustic guitar↵
195. which she offered to give to me if I wanted them. I said yes and now had two guitars↵
196. to↵
197. learn on: my electric and↵
198. this acoustic. I learned to play the keyboard for a short-while but didn't enjoy it as↵
199. much as guitar so it was put away in the loft.
↵
200. After a few years I wanted to buy an electroacoustic guitar↵
201. like the↵
202. one Ed Sheeran plays, which is↵
203. a Martin & Co. LX Ed Sheeran Signature.
However they were a bit too expensive so I↵
204. saved↵
205. up and settled on the LX 1E↵
206. standard model instead and eventually sold the other acoustic guitar. The Martin looks↵
207. fantastic and plays beautifully.↵
208. Since my last year of school I have been writing my own↵
209. songs and all of these I use↵
210. my↵
211. Martin to play on when I↵
212. record the songs.↵
213. So I mainly use two guitars for all my practice and recordings:↵
214. 1. Martin & Co. LX 1E Small Body Electroacoustic guitar with pre-amp pickup.↵ 215. 2. Chord Stratocaster Electric Guitar with 3 single-pole pickups↵
216. Back to

My Equipment</h2>↵

222.      I was bought an Apple MacBook Air Laptop for my 16th
223.      birthday which has software on
224.      it
225.      called 'Garage Band'. I started 226.      to learn how to use this software in my last year of secondary school and used that
227.      knowledge to play, sing, record
228.      and produce my own songs. I can't really sing but auto-tune is a god-send! <i
229.      class="far fa-smile">.
230.      At first, I was recording my voice and guitar on separate
231.      tracks through a microphone
232.      on
233.      my gaming-headphones but
234.      although this worked it wasn't ideal. After a visit to my Grandad Peter's house, we
235.      explored his music room and Dad
236.      showed me how to setup Grandad's 8-channel
Behringer Xenyx mixer. This was great fun
237.      because he also showed me how
238.      to use EQ tricks to make my guitar sound like a bass and record it into my songs. I 239.      enjoyed that so much, I decided
240.      to buy myself a 2-channel Behringer Xenyx mixer and borrowed one of Grandad's Shure
241.      SM58
242.      mics and mic stand.
243.      Since getting a desk in my bedroom I have used an old tv
244.      to link up via HDMI to my
245.      laptop
246.      and plugged everything else
247.      in around the desk. It feels like my own little recording studio!
248.      So, in summary, here's the list of my equipment:
249.      1. 'Shure' SM58 Microphone with on/off switch
250.      2. Standard XLR Balanced lead
251.      3. Standard 4-point adjustment tri-pod Microphone stand
252.      4. Behringer Xenyx 2-channel mixer with USB output
253.      5. Apple MacBook Air with Garage Band App
